H. W. Todd, Esq., of Pilot Knob, on the "cold Saturday," thought he had found a dead man near the railroad track between the Knob and Middlebrook, and so informed the section men. They went to the place indicated, but only found a depression in the snow caused by some engine blowing out steam through the pipes in the cylinders. Mr. Todd looked abashed, while the boys chaffed him unmercifully.

The Baldwin Bros.' planing-mill had a third narrow escape from destruction by fire Monday of last week. F. Christianer, Esq., came down from St. Louis that night on No. 3, which reaches Ironton about one o'clock A. M. As he stepped on the porch at the American Hotel he looked southward and saw a light in front of the mill, distant about three hundred yards. He looked at it for a few minutes, and it grew brighter. Then, surmising it might be an incipient conflagration, he started toward it at a quickstep, which had increased into a run by the time he reached the mill. Then he saw that the front door of the building was burning and the flames rapidly spreading. He awakened the residents in the vicinity and by their joint exertions the fire was extinguished. An ash-bucket placed against the door by an employe, had done the mischief. Why will not people learn to use reasonable precaution in such matters? The City Council was in session Monday, and transacted the ordinary routine business. The books of the Collector were examined. and he was ordered to bring suit against all delinquents. The question of enacting an ordinance prohibiting horses from running at large within the city limits, was discussed at some length; but the Mayor was of the at some length; but the Mayor was of the opinion that the charter did not authorize the making of such a law. We have seen horses running at break-neck speed on the side-walks for squares at a time, and men, women and children were made to run for their lives. Several very narrow escapes were made during last summer and fall, by ladies and children, and in one particular instance, it was "touch-and-go" for a child on the side-walk between Rutschman's and Garnier's. If there can be nothing done to protect ourselves against such a dangerous nuisance, why, we must grin and bear it, we presume; for the people who thus turn their stock out to make reprisals from the public-at-large, will scarcely have such considerations for their neighbor's wel-Tom Diggs, the old colored odd-job man fare as will induce them to restrain their of Ironton, had his feet so badly frozen last quadrupeds. Editor Register .- The second term of public school, at this place, commenced Wedneshere, he informed us that he expected to day, Jan. 3d, 1884, I am highly pleased with visit our city about the time of the comple- the school, and with the advancement my pupils have made, in the different grades, during the last term. I am also well pleased, At the Court House we met our genial with the deportment of the school. I have friend, Sheriff W. A. Fletcher, County Clerk G. B. Nall and Constable Paul Patton. The studious, and quick to learn. They are now Sheriff and Constable, it seems, had some trouble with a crazy man in the jail the day before, and the results of the little scuffle a high grade of scholarship during the presa high grade of scholarship during the present term. But there is one trouble with gained, when there is nothing else of more importance concerning our own individual wellbeing, which demands attention. On the contrary, the pupil should devote his entire time and attention to his studies, if he would thoroughly prepare himself for the future business of life. It is impossible for pupils to make any advancement in their studies when attending school only one, two or three days in the week. Such pupils would be better off at home; for every lesson recited prepares the pupil for the next, and he who fails to receive the proper instruction upon each lesson passed over by the class, will be soon himself unable to proceed further, and will be compelled to commence again, with some smaller class, only to fail again, and fall back in the same manner as before. So time goes on, the school closes, and he finds himself no further advanced than he was on the first day of the term. He is like the horse on the tread wheel-he gropes blindly on, and never finds himself any higher. Now whose fault is this? Not the teacher's, for he has done all he could for the unfortunate pupil. We as teachers, cannot give special instruction. If this fault is corrected, by parents and patrons, we can promise a pleasant and profitable school. During the present term, I will expect to grade very accurately, and tardy and absent marks will bring the average grade low, as was the case with some of the most studious and brilliant pupils last term. Recitations, declamations and compositions will be required by the pupils attending the school. Proper training in this work is an excellent recreation and education.

We were glad to see so many correspondents coming forward last week with their budget of news. Hope they may continue. Miss Clara Jaquith and her sister, Mrs.

Ada Countryman, went to St. Louis Satur-day to spend a few days with friends. The late snow has inspired our livery men

Mr. Henry Procunior, a young master mechanic for some months engaged with the Ore & Steel Co., has been promoted to the position of Chief Engineer, in place of Mr. J. H. Miller. The position is a very responsible and paying one, and the possessor is for-tunate. Mr. P. is said to be well qualified, and has the bearing of a clever gentleman.

Our Town Collector, Mr. Schwaner, informs us that quite a number of residents are delinquent in the settlement of their city tax, and that he is authorized to proceed very soon; by attachment.

Sickness has been unusually frequent durper week, for several weeks past. But notwithstanding the great amount of sickness, the population is increasing at the rate of week. Will McFarland's is a girl. It being the first, Will is just too happy, and sings, "'Tis the way I long had sought," &c.

A certain lady Sabbath-school teacher, commenting upon the need of a few more vorkers in that noble work, suggests the addition of one or two policemen also. Hu-miliating as it may seem, it is sadly true, that three or four persons can't train seventy or eighty persons how to behave in a house of worship, allowing one hour to the task, once a week. "There's a cry from Macedonia,"

During the late severe weather, we were reminded of a case of extreme destitution, needing public charity. Though inexperienced as a Samaritan, we secured a basket and stocking it with the gifts of some of our merchants, we started in search of the sub-ject, and found the widow Lambert sick of pneumonia, her only support that of a twelve or thirteen-year-old boy. Having had no food for two days, a mite was very acceptable. We are now informed that Mr. A. L. Bowman, one of the Company's omnipresent and untiring employes, has since circulated among the workmen and officers of the Company, and secured over forty dollars of alliances in 1883! Des Arc. Now, "Uncle," we must beg to deny your testimony and to say that we can prove the contrary of your statements beyond a peradventure. Most men "profess" to be friends to temperance, but "Uncle," a friend of temperance can not consistently defend the cause of liquor. We doubt the man's sincerity who says he is a friend to temperance, but interposes a thousand and one saving clauses. Now your physicians must be of that class who have wkiskey drug stores. The papers and men who charge that prohibition does not prohibit in Maine, are always opposed to prohibition. The temperance folks claim that it is nearest prohibition of any law now in force on the traffic. We can overwhelmingly impeach the testimony of your physicians. Twenty odd of the most renowned physicians of New York, combined to investigate the subject a few years ago, and they say there is but little absolute use for whiskey in medicine. You may say they were friends to temperance. They are at the head of the medical profession. The three most noted physicians of St. Louis say whiskey has no known remedial properties in consumption. It only hardens the lungs and deadens pain. Cod liver oil is better taken with warm coffee. But my dear Uncle. the temperance folks make no war against whiskey in medicine. If we can confine it to that use we are content. It is the saloon, that we oppose. Do you claim the saloon as A. BEGLEY.

Lowe used your quotation, except in derision. You say the revenue benefits every man in Iron coun- | State. ty. We can prove that every man but venders, is injured. The two great trials-Thomas and Downs-before they are settled, will have cost Iron county three or four thousand dollars. They each grew out of whiskey. But that revenue comes from the pockets of drinkers at last. Their wives and children have less bread and shoes thereby. If we have no whiskey revenue, we will raise the money by direct tax.

The whiskey revenue is paid by the consumers. Their families can better afford to pay the direct land or property tax. Temperance folks will gladly help pay the direct tax, to get rid of the whiskey. They can better do it than pay three or four thousand dollars criminal costs.

Are you a friend to temperance, "Uncle?" If so, come out from bad company. The bible says, "Stand ye not in the council of the ungodly."
